

In English this week, we began a new unit of work called 'Quests'. The children have been analysing a short video story about a Knight's Quest which will inspire their writing in the coming weeks.

In Maths, we have been using the column method for addition when an exchange is required. We began by using counters to exchange practically and then moved on to the written method. This is trickier than addition without exchanging so we will be continuing to consolidate and apply this method next week before we move on to column subtraction.
