

In English this week, we completed our non-chronological reports about the Portia spider and started to plan our independent reports on volcanoes. Using the skills we have learnt, we made notes on the relevant information and have planned a subheading for each section.

In Maths, we have been adding tens and ones to 3-digit numbers. We are excited to launch our very first TTRockstars competition this week. The challenge is to spend at least ten minutes throughout the week (Monday – Monday) practising the relevant times tables on TTRockstars. In class, children are currently recapping the times tables taught previously in Year 2 (x2, x10, x5) but once confident with these, they should be practising x4, x3, x6 and x8.

In RESPECT, we completed our first school council meeting of the year where the children voted for which charities they would like to support using the money collected weekly from Friday Bake.

In Art, we brought together all the skills that we have learnt in this unit to create a piece of abstract art. We created a mini art gallery where the children moved around the room looking at each other's artwork.

We would like to remind parents that the first set of Year 3 statutory words will be tested next week. These are listed below and were also stuck in homework diaries in September.
